MIXED EMOTIONS

Meeting the children of Uganda, whose wide smiles belie their circumstances, was life-changing

Over the years, I've had some incredible experiences thanks to this job. I've travelled the world, shared a dance floor with Rihanna and, twice a year, I'm lucky enough to go to the international collections to witness some of the most astounding displays of creativity you could ever imagine. But no experience has moved me quite as much, or made me feel so profoundly privileged to be there, as a trip I recently took to southern Uganda with the Cotton On Foundation (COF), along with ELLE's beauty and fitness director Janna and features editor Vanessa.
